

Anthropology

The scientific study of the social, cultural and physical development of humans, past and present.