

Compound

Two or more elements or molecules which are chemically bound to each other. The term 'compound' is often used to refer to a medicine which is being developed.