

Formulation

A formulation is a mixture of different chemical substances prepared according to a specific method to create a medicinal product.