

Recruitment

Recruitment is the process used by investigators to enrol people (participants) into a clinical study. Recruitment is based on the inclusion and exclusion criteria that are documented in the study protocol.