

Therapeutic vaccines

Therapeutic vaccines introduce antigens associated with an illness to teach the body to fight against a different illness.